

"Joyful Echoes: A Psalm for Our Father"

In the light of memories, we gather, hearts aglow,
To honor a father, whose love was a show.
With saxophone's laughter and melody's flow,
He taught us to live, to love, and to grow.

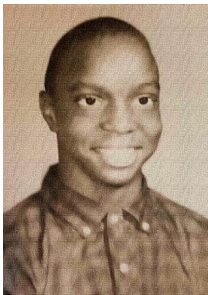

His music, a testament, to the Lord's grace,

In every note, His goodness we'd trace.
"Make a joyful noise," the Psalms would embrace,
In his tunes, God's love found its place.

No words were needed, just the sound of his song,
To show us the path, to help us be strong.
His life, a melody, to which we belong,
A joyful chorus, vibrant and long.

So, let's sing with the sea, the hills, and the skies,
With trumpets and cornets, our spirits rise.
In this symphony of praise, our love never dies,
For a father, whose music forever ties.

In his notes, a legacy, bright and clear,
A call to rejoice, to all far and near.
"Sing unto the Lord," with hearts sincere,
In memory of Moe, we hold dear.
