Forever Our Jessica Anita

Jessica Anita,
your name still trembles softly through the chambers of our hearts. a whisper that lingers long after the room grows quiet and the healing process struggles to start.

You left this world too soon, before any of us were ready, before our hands learned how to loosen their grip on someone we loved so dearly.

We watched you fight with quiet courage, holding on through every sleepless night, searching for a moment of relief, reaching for the smallest light.

Now the pain has loosened its grip and sorrow can no longer call your name.
You have found a peace beyond our understanding, where weary hearts are healed and made whole again.

Still, missing you will come in waves, in memories that catch us unaware, in laughter that suddenly turns to tears the moment we realize you’re not there.

And though grief now walks beside us, love walks with us too...for death may quiet the body, but it cannot silence the imprint of you.

No longer do you have to suffer. No more pain resting in your bones, no more sadness stealing your breath. No longer will you feel alone.

You are free now; wrapped in the arms of our loved ones who’ve gone before you, held gently by eternal love. Wearing your heavenly crown.

Rest now, my dear angel.
You may be gone from our sight, but never from our souls.
Forever loved.
Forever missed.
Forever our Jessica Anita

~A Hemingway~

A Beautiful Life Remembered

Jessica Anita Lloyd-Hall was born March 30, 1980, in Gastonia, North Carolina, to the late Robert Lewis Hall and Anita Willette Littlejohn Lloyd. On May 25, 2026, she entered eternal rest at CaroMont Regional Medical Center.

Jessica attended Ashbrook High School and spent most of her life in Gaston County.

She was a loving mother, devoted grandmother, faithful church member, and a woman known for her strength, honesty, and unwavering love for her family.

A member of St. Peter's Tabernacle AME Zion Church and its choir, Jessica loved the Lord and made sure her children were raised in church and grounded in faith. Music was one of her greatest joys, and her home was often filled with songs that brought family together.

In 2015, Jessica suffered a stroke, followed by two additional strokes in 2017. Though the effects remained with her throughout the rest of her life, she faced every challenge with determination and courage, becoming a testimony of perseverance to all who knew her.

Above all, Jessica loved her children and grandchildren. Her life was marked by sacrifice, resilience, faith, and love.

She was preceded in death by her parents and her brother, Christopher Lloyd.

She leaves to cherish her memory her children, Dontavious D. Harris, Tyson Lloyd Sr., Jarkevious Love, and Philisha Glenn; her grandchildren, Trinity, Serenity, Gabriella, Tyson Jr., and Sarriyah; her sisters, Tamela Torrence (Herbert), Ashley Hemingway (Monique), Kimberly Lloyd, and Brittney Lloyd; and a host of nieces, nephews, relatives, and friends.

Jessica's legacy will live on through the family she loved, the faith she instilled, and the strength she demonstrated throughout her life.

*"She maketh herself coverings of tapestry; her clothing is silk and purple."
Proverbs 31:22 (KJV)*
