

Her Story

Catherine Williams “Cat” was born in Havana, Florida on June 15, 1954, to Dorothy and A.C. Williams. Our beloved mother, grandmother, and matriarch entered eternal rest surrounded by love and legacy on January 31, 2026.

She graduated from Nova High School in 1972 and later attended college in Georgia. A lifeline learner, she went on to earn both her Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees in Accounting through online studies, demonstrating perseverance, discipline and pride in her education. Most importantly, she found the Lord, and her faith became a guiding force in her life. She lived with joy, conviction, and a heart for family, always grounding those around her with wisdom and love.

She was known for her vibrant spirit and her love of music and dance – a true reminder that joy is a gift, meant to be shared. Her life was full, her laughter was contagious, and her love unwavering. She was known for her favorite two sayings: “Ops, did I say that” and “I ain’t gonna let you worry me.”

Catherine was preceded in death by her father, A.C. Williams and brother Albert Williams. She leaves to cherish her memory, her devoted daughter, Kimberly Williams, (Kim’s father, Herbert Christopher), mother, Dorothy Williams, sister, Annie Williams, (Victor Thomas) Brother, Jeffrey Williams, (Adrienne Williams).

Catherine was a proud grandmother to Brendon Miller, Breyon Thomas, Briyon Thomas, Ronae Thomas, and Rodencia Thomas II and a treasured grandmother to Kamron Thomas (son of Breyon), Kezra Miller, (son of Brendon), and Kahir (bonus great grandchild through Brendon’s fiancée, Stephanie).

She also leaves behind a host of beloved nieces and nephews: Sheena Thomas, (mother of CJ, Tayshon, and Zion shared with her wife, Laquana Thomas), Shanise Williams, Jeffrey Williams II, (father of Aizen Williams) Jasmine Williams, and Yolanda Williams, along with many extended family members and friends who will forever carry her memory in their hearts.

Her life was well lived and her love was deeply felt. Her legacy will endure.
