

We'll Miss You, Shaun

From the moment you entered our lives
 A spark lit the room, a bright quiet light.
 Your mind was sharp, your heart so wide,
 Turning every challenge into triumph with quiet pride.
 You leveled up with every stage you faced,
 From games to music, each dream embraced.
 Every laugh, every word, every fleeting hour,
 Leaves a lasting echo of your strength and power
 Controller in hand, headphones snug tight,
 You crafted your world, day into night.
 Three steps ahead, always thinking, always true,
 Lifting those around you, showing what courage can do.
 This isn't goodbye, it's "see you soon,"
 You'll shine like the sun breaking through the gloom.
 In every beat, every win, every memory we hold,
 The story of Shaun Glenn continues to unfold.

Sweet.

Smart.

Resourceful.

Resilient.

Forever loved, Forever missed.

Obituary

Shaun Christopher Glenn was born on February 16, 2005, to his loving mother, Shaharah Glenn. He was a beloved son, brother, cousin, and nephew. Alongside his biological family, Shaun's life was also shaped by the love, guidance, and presence of Chervonne Arnold, Robert Williams, Chauncey and Toyia Jenkins. His sisters Shaunna Jordan and Keliscia Glenn and many other loving brothers and sisters.

Shaun's love for competitive gaming was more than a pastime—it was a passion, a skill, and a vision for the future. What began with hours of mastering gameplay grew into streaming, sharing his talent with others, and dreaming of one day designing and building his own games. His determination and drive in this pursuit reflected the same focus he brought to every area of his life.

He was known for a sharp and subtle sense of humor that not everyone caught right away, but those who did cherished it. He loved music deeply, with hopes of learning the guitar, and he had the rare ability to see beauty and possibility in the things he loved.

At just 16 years old, Shaun received the life-saving gift of a heart transplant. It was a turning point that reminded him—and all who loved him—of the courage and resilience he carried within. Through life's challenges and changes, Shaun held onto a quiet strength and a genuine appreciation for the people who poured into him along the way.

Shaun's life was not without trials, but it was full—full of moments that inspired, connections that mattered, and dreams that spoke to the heart of who he was. His journey reminds us that the measure of a life is not in its length, but in its depth, and in the love and creativity it leaves behind.

"Your story was uniquely yours, Shaun—brave, creative, resilient, and filled with heart. May we honor you by living with the same courage and authenticity you showed us."

He is preceded in death by his maternal grandparents, Jackie Woods and Glenda Glenn. He will be remembered by all whose lives he touched, and his impact will continue to ripple through the hearts of many.
