

"Elizabeth"

by Susan Crane

A daughter, sister, wife, and mother
You were one of a kind, like no other
Sister, Friend, Love, Grammy, and Mom
Now is our time to be strong
The love that you gave
The sacrifices you made
They will never be forgotten
I will think of you often
A warm breeze on a sunny day
When you would take me to the park to play
The bedtime stories you would tell
You played the characters so well
If I could say one thing to you
It would be I love you
You will be missed by all you knew
These words I speak are all true
To be gone so soon and missed so much
Your smile, laugh, and touch
You were a daughter, sister, mother, wife
And I will miss you the rest of my life
