

Cherished Memories

Flower Bearers Family & Friends

You Are One Amazing Lady
You were so good to the people in your life. So considerate and caring. When you give, it's easy to see that it comes straight from the heart and it gives everyone around you the gift of a nice world to live in.

I hope you'll never forget how much a treasure just being in this world with you. You are such a deserving person and I really hope that all your days were as beautiful and it's bright as the ones you inspired in other people's lives.

The Love That Raised Me
When I was small, I saw your smile, but not the tears you hid. I never knew the quiet strength behind the things you did. I did not count the sleepless nights, the worries in your heart, the way you held our world together when it tried to fall apart. But life has taught me year by year what love can truly mean. The kind that gives without applause. the kind that works unseen. You were my comfort, home and guide. My soft place to begin. The voice that helped me trust myself and find the light within. So Mom, I hope you know the love I've always known. For everything I am becoming

Mama, I Know

Mama, I know
you woke before dawn,
even when all your rest was gone.
You poured my milk, you kissed my nose,
you brushed my hair and tied my bows.

Mama, I know
you sang me songs and made me smile,
you carried me that extra mile.
You held me close when I felt scared,
and always showed me that you cared.

Mama, I know
you cleaned and cooked,
you packed my bag, you read my book.
You planned the days, you drove me there—
to games and school and everywhere.

Mama, I know
you kissed each bump and scraped-up knee,
and helped me learn my ABCs.
You taught me manners and how to love,
reminding me I was always enough.

Mama, I know
you saw the days I felt unsure,
when all my worries were a blur.
You listened close, you held my hand,
and helped me find the strength to stand.

Mama, I Know

Mama, I know
I rolled my eyes,
and didn't see your sacrifice.
I thought I knew more than you,
but turns out, I had so much to learn too.

Mama, I know
I pushed you away,
but you still showed up anyway.
You hid your tears, you calmed my storm,
you were my shelter—safe and warm.

Mama, I know
because now I see—
in caring for the one in front of me.
I feel the weight, the love, the ache,
the countless things you did for my sake.

So now I say with heart grown wide,
thank you, Mama, from deep inside.
For every hug, for every prayer,
for always being truly there.

*For my Mama, and every Mama—whose strength and love guide us, whose quiet sacrifices are felt by every heart
they touch.*
