OBTUARY

Daisy Galloway McCollum was born in Rockingham County to the late James and Sarah Broadnax Galloway on February 7, 1943. She passed away peacefully at home surrounded by love, on April 26, 2026.

Daisy was a graduate of Charles Drew High School, Madison, NC, Class of 1962. She was employed with the Rockingham County School System as a custodian for many years. She joined Jones Chapel Baptist Church at an early age. She was affiliated with various organizations of the church, including Pastors Aide Ministries, Deacon and trustees' wives board, gospel choir and other activities.

She found her greatest happiness in the kitchen, where she lovingly prepared meals and brought people together through food. Her heart was rooted in her love for the Lord, which guided her life and the way she cared for others.

Daisy was also preceded in death by her beautiful daughter, Charlene W. McCollum and loving siblings; Posey Woods, Lillie Brim, Alberta Broadnax, Kate Carter, Gladys Dillard, Annie Bell G. Ellington, Roy Galloway, George Galloway, and James Galloway. Daisy was the youngest and the last surviving member of the late James and Sarah Broadnax Galloway family. She is now reunited with her nine siblings.

Daisy leaves to cherish her memory: loving husband; Charles W. McCollum, Grandson, Hurley Brown III (Mandy) of Reidsville, Great-grandchildren; Damon Williams, Mariana Faint, Hurley Brown IV, and Dallas Brown, Sister-in-law; Diane McCollum Galloway (John) and numerous other nephews and nieces, as well as a multitude of friends and other relatives.

She was surrounded by a strong support system that included God daughters; Shekia Fountain, Laura Blackstock and special friends; Brenda Adam's, Bessie Grissom, Tammy Jeffries and Romona Martin.
