Ulysses Lasting Memory

Ulysses “Ant” Cofield Jr. was born December 16, 1963 in Atlanta, Georgia, to the late Ulysses Cofield Sr. and the late Annette Almond Cofield. The third of four children, Ulysses, affectionately known as “Ant” to his family and friends, grew up in Atlanta, where his infectious personality left a lasting impression on everyone he met.

Ulysses spent over a decade as a truck driver before discovering his true calling as a caretaker for the disabled. His passion for helping others and his unwavering compassion brought comfort and joy to countless lives.

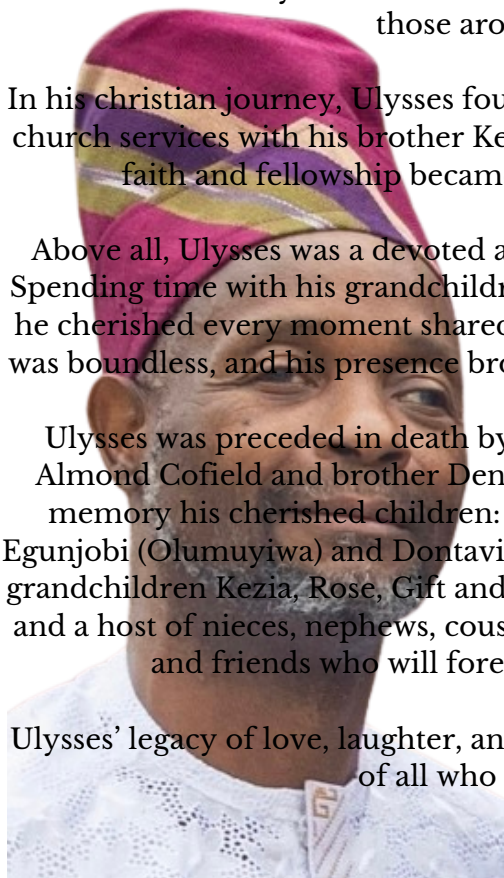

A proud graduate of Samuel Howard Archer High School, Class of 1982, Ulysses was known for his quick wit, hilarious sense of humor, and a smile that could light up any room. He brought laughter and joy wherever he went, earning a reputation along with his brother Kenny as “Dem Cofield Boys”. He was a natural jokester who always uplifted those around him.

In his christian journey, Ulysses found solace and fulfillment attending church services with his brother Kenneth at Bright Light Ministry. His faith and fellowship became an integral part of his life.

Above all, Ulysses was a devoted and loving father and grandfather. Spending time with his grandchildren was the highlight of his life, and he cherished every moment shared with his family. His love for them was boundless, and his presence brought warmth and joy to their lives.

Ulysses was preceded in death by his parents, Ulysses Sr., Annette Almond Cofield and brother Dennis Dobbs. He leaves to honor his memory his cherished children: Kenya Cofield, Lakoyia Cofield-Egunjobi (Olumuyiwa) and Dontavious Cater. He is also survived by his grandchildren Kezia, Rose, Gift and Dontavious Cater Jr., aunts, uncles and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and countless family members and friends who will forever treasure his memory.

Ulysses’ legacy of love, laughter, and kindness will live on in the hearts of all who knew him.
