Her Life's Journey

Mrs. Carrie Williams Jackson of Thomasville, Georgia (formerly of Dawson, Georgia) went home to be with her Lord and Savior on January 22, 2025. She was a woman with an abiding faith in God. She loved her family deeply, served her community, her church, and never met a stranger.

Carrie Louise Williams, affectionally nicknamed “Dit” by her family was born on November 25, 1937, to James “Jim” Williams and Mattie Williams. She was given the honor of being named for her maternal grandmother, Carrie Louise Callier.

She grew up in Bronwood, Georgia and graduated from Carver High School in Dawson, Georgia. At an early age, she began assisting her mother in the kitchen and by the time she was thirteen, she was cooking meals for the entire family.

As a child, Carrie accepted Christ as her personal savior and was baptized at Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church, Bronwood, Georgia. She was a faithful member, who over the years served the ministries of the church by singing in the Choir, serving as Deaconess, Program Director, Financial Secretary, Youth Director, Women’s Day Chairman, and Fundraising Chairman.

Throughout her life Mrs. Carrie was devoted to her family, lovingly nurturing her children with gentle guidance and care. She always encouraged and supported her husband and children to strive for excellence. She worked hard as a factory worker to help support her family. Never one to rest, she was an excellent cook and baker. In later years, she was known as “the Avon Lady”. She was often one of the top sellers in the South Georgia area. She also worked for a time as a sitter for elderly patients.

After retiring, she often volunteered at the Albritten Neighborhood Service Center. For fellowship and physical exercise, Mrs. Carrie was a daily attendee at the local Southwest GA Senior Citizen Center. She cherished her family deeply, valuing the time spent with them and cooking delicious meals for them.

She is preceded in death by her husband Roderick Mercer Jackson, her sisters Mary Ann Williams Jenkins and Ruth Williams, her brothers Donald Eugene Williams, Sr. and James Calvin Williams.

Carrie’s legacy is carried on by her children, Debra Jackson Abrams (Nathaniel Abrams, Jr); Trenis Mercer Jackson (Helen Thornton); Eric Darrell Jackson; grandchildren Forrest Jackson, Kara Jackson; bonus grandchildren, Nate Abrams (Joya Abrams); Kellen Abrams; bonus great grandchildren, Bennett Abrams and Christopher Abrams; sister Burnie Anderson (Harold Anderson); two nephews and a niece reared as her brothers and sister, Micheal Jenkins, John Jenkins (Glenda), Jr, and Mary Ann Jenkins Seay; sisters-in-law Martha Risby and Betty Powell Williams; a host of nieces, great nieces, great great nieces, nephews, great nephews, great great nephews, cousins, god children and friends; a special friend Mary Frances Jenkins and two special god daughters Ruth Nathan Hall and Dorothy Green. The family of Carrie would like to extend a special appreciation to: Dr. Kimberly Pickens, her nurse Gabe; Carrie’s home health aides: Deshanna, Erica, Telisa, Deisha, Ashaureah, Brittney, Lillie and Rickeal.
