Reflections of a Life Well Lived

Johnny L. Williams was born on May 11, 1945, in Randolph County, GA. His mother was the late Jeannie Lee Williams. Johnny attended the public schools of Randolph County, GA, and Lee County, GA. He was a faithful and longtime member of Hopewell Missionary Baptist Church in Albany, GA, until his health failed. On April 20, 1971, Johnny married Gladys Lewis (the love of his life), who preceded him in death.

Johnny was a hardworking man who spent most of his life doing farm work and worked with the City of Albany for many years. Some of the purest joys of his life were experiences with family (especially the births of his grandchildren and great-granddaughter) and lottery scratch-off tickets. Johnny also enjoyed participating in his church, especially singing in the choir. He had two sons: Alfonza Lewis, Sr., and Jesse J. Bronner, Jr. He also had a special sister-in-law, Annie Owens, who not only had a special relationship with him but also with his wife, Gladys.

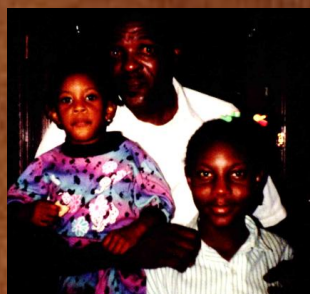

Johnny came from a large family of sisters and brothers. His brothers who preceded him in death are A.B. Williams, John Williams, Ike Williams, Arthur Lee Williams, and Michael Williams. His sisters are Cora Lee Williams and Gloria Ann Williams.

As Johnny's health began to fail, he received great care from the attentive team at Genesic Health, LLC. Care team members include Bobbie Jean Barnes, Ilyasha Blackburn, Leona Brown, Natonya Hill, Juanita (Betty) Williams, Gwendolyn King, Juanita Brown (Manager), and Owners/Founders Vallerie Lewis, Alisha S. Lewis, Andre'a N. Lewis, and Alfonza Lewis, Sr.

He is survived by his sons: Alfonza (Vallerie) Lewis, Sr., and Jesse J. Bronner, Jr.; his distinguished niece, Menita Lewis-Taylor; his grandchildren: Andre'a N. Lewis, Alisha S. Lewis, and Alfonza Lewis, Jr.; his great-granddaughter, Adynn Dupont; and a host of relatives and friends.
