Acknowledgements

We pray God's richest blessing upon all who offered their condolences to us. Special thanks to my big brother, Larry Paige, who helped me and supported me while I oversaw the care of our brother. To my brother Raymond, who gave him his last haircut he especially requested you and I'm thankful for you showing up for him.

When Tomorrow Starts Without Me

When tomorrow starts without me, and I'm not here to see if the sun should rise and find your eyes are filled with tears for me
I wish you so much you wouldn't cry the way you did today; while thinking of the many things we didn't get to say. I know how much you love me as much as I love you. And each time you think of me I know you'll miss me too... But when tomorrow starts without me please try to understand that an angel came and called my name and took me by the hand; And said my place was ready in Heaven far above and that I'd have to leave behind all those I dearly love. So when tomorrow starts without me don't think we're far apart for every time you think of me I'm right there in your heart.

THE LIFE OF MACARTHUR PAIGE

MacArthur Paige, born on October 7, 1957, in Jacksonville, Florida, had a quiet, yet deeply beloved presence in the lives of all who knew him. The son of Robert and Catherine Paige, Mac grew up in Jacksonville, attending Moncrief Elementary School and Northwestern Junior High School. He later learned trades in welding and construction fields that suited his hardworking and steady nature.

Mac was a Christian man with Baptist roots, and his faith helped shape the gentle, humble spirit everyone remembers. Though a man of few words, when Mac chose to speak, he often brought laughter with his quick wit and playful jokes, especially with his nieces and nephews. He enjoyed life's simple pleasures: a good football game, the fun of bingo, music that soothed the soul, and, of course, the sweet Moon Pies he loved to snack on. His kindness and warmth were as unmistakable as his smile.

Though he never had children of his own, Mac cherished family deeply. He played a special and loving role in helping raise his great-nephew, Deontae "Bobo" Foster. During Bobo's elementary school years, Mac made sure homework was done and school was never missed a quiet but powerful example of his devotion and care.

In his later years, Mac faced cancer with the same strength, dignity, and calm resilience that defined his life. He never complained, meeting every challenge with courage and grace, and continuing to inspire those around him with his peaceful spirit.

MacArthur was preceded in death by his parents: Robert and Catherine Paige and younger sister: Sharon McClendon.

Left to cherish his memories are his siblings: John (Corine) Denson, Larry (Gwen) Paige, Sandra Jenkins, Raymond Paige, Alvin Brown, and Troy Paige; a large and loving circle of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends who will forever hold his memory in their hearts.

Mac's life was quiet but full, gentle but deeply felt—an example of kindness, faith, and love that will continue to live on in all who knew him.
